Hills Cemetery Chapel information

Freeman Brothers has recently commenced operating Hills Cemetery Chapel on behalf of Horsham District Council and has refurbished it to the highest standards, featuring a flexible layout which enables it to be used as both a traditional service venue (with seating for up to 50 people) and a more intimate space for smaller congregations.

As part of the refurbishment of the Chapel, we have installed an Obitus music system, equivalent to that available in many crematoria.

The features of this system include:

- wide choice of music available. Any piece of music which is commercially available should be able to be played on the state-of-the-art digital system, with music included in the standard charge for use of the Chapel.
- hymn tunes to accompany the congregation singing. The music system has a large range of hymns which can be sung along to, and you can choose a version where you are accompanied just by organ music, or a version with an organ and choir.
- display screen. Included in the standard charge for the use of the Chapel is the ability to display one photo on the screen either throughout the service or at a time of your choosing.
- photo montage facility available. For a small extra charge (see table opposite), there are various options for displaying montages of photos at your chosen time during the service.
- webcasting. The service can be broadcast via the internet live.

Schedule of charges

Use of the Chapel and Chapel Attendant £384

The Chapel Attendant will: arrive at the Chapel in advance; ensure the facilities are prepared and tidy; greet the congregation and assist in seating them; check the music system in advance and operate it during the service; and remain in the Chapel after the service until the congregation has departed.

There is no charge for use of the Chapel for the funeral of a baby or child under the age of 18. These services will also include a complimentary live webcast and Slideshow, if these are required.
